Antique Wood Flooring

The Collection

We have a passion about creating the finest bespoke antique and hardwood flooring. A beautiful antique floor is essential to preserve the interior of your period home and can equally be used to create warmth, character and add value to any new property.

We help clients recreate antique floors either by a painstaking reclamation and restoration of the original or faithful reproduction by using select grade hardwood and skilled ageing techniques. Our floor designs vary from contemporary to historic; from simple boards to intricate antique timber.

Antique Wood Flooring - Fine Details

Antique Flooring, Reclaimed and Restored

Antique floors have an unrivalled patina with such depth of colour and tone that makes even the simplest floor feel sumptuous.

We have an extensive collection of old flooring ranging from simple and classic wide boards to ornate and complex parquet designs.

In each floor we make sure that every detail of timber, colour, pattern, texture and dimensions are individually selected and expertly finished so that we deliver you a luxurious floor that will remain beautiful throughout its long life.

We supply flooring direct to your own fitters or offer a comprehensive service including design and fitting of the floor.

Reproduction Floors, Aged

Each boarded floor is made exactly to your specification from the choicest of new timber boards.

Using our knowledge of restoration and ageing techniques the width, grain, character, texture and finish of timber boards we can create strikingly simple floor designs.

We are fanatical about getting our flooring right and this allows us to produce a floor that can be installed over under-floor heating systems without risk of heat damage to the fine craftsmanship.

Samples and laid floors showing the beautiful textures and colours of different woods are on display at our Petersfield showroom. We can also visit you for a design consultation.

With Miles of Wood Flooring in stock in oak, pine and other select timbers we have a superb range of both antique and new wood floor boards available, for you to choose the wood flooring to suit your style and bring a sumptuous finish to any room in your home.
